

Department Training - Core Microfinance Operations

Starter department file for lending, client handling, and transaction accuracy.

Module outcomes

- Understand the basic flow from application to monitoring
- Use accurate and ethical documentation practices
- Follow approved procedures for repayment monitoring and collections

Loan Evaluation and Verification

Frontline and operations staff must verify applications carefully before endorsement or processing. This includes reviewing forms, checking supporting documents, and confirming consistency in client declarations.

Incomplete or inconsistent information should be clarified before moving forward.

- Validate identity and supporting documents.
- Check completeness of forms and signatures.
- Escalate inconsistencies and unusual risk indicators.

Client Interviewing and Field Investigation

Interviews should be structured, respectful, and focused on the client's actual business, income sources, repayment capacity, and purpose of the loan.

Field investigation supports documentary review by checking whether the declared business or residence details are reasonable and verifiable.

- Ask neutral, factual questions.
- Document observations promptly and accurately.
- Avoid making promises before approval is complete.

Monitoring, Collection, and Service Recovery

After release, accounts should be monitored according to schedule. Delays in payment should be handled through proper reminders, documentation, and approved collection protocols.

The goal is to preserve client relationships while protecting portfolio quality.

- Track due dates and account status regularly.
- Use official receipts and approved collection controls.
- Escalate arrears cases according to policy.
